

What a busy week! The children have enjoyed lots of great classroom opportunities and I always enjoy going around school to talk to them about what they're learning. I'm going to launch my Headteacher's award next week so watch this space for the shiny stickers! It has been great to see so many people donate cakes for our Macmillan coffee morning today. We still have lots left so bring your money at 3.15pm and grab some more! I hope you have a great weekend!
